We generated genome-wide DNA methylation profiles of 323 tumors with an institutional diagnosis of "CNS-PNET." Unsupervised clustering, including 211 well-characterized "reference" tumors representing other CNS tumor entities, reliably separated samples into clusters defined by histological entities and known molecular subgroups (Figures 1A, 1B, and S1A–S1D; Table S1). Classification of acute myeloid leukemias Disease: First group WHO: AML with "recurrent cytogenetic translocations" Note: Although the term "de novo" is not fully appropriate (see below "secondary AML"), this category of patients is usually referred as such in the literature since MDS or chemo/radiotherapy does not usually precede them either. Histological types of breast cancer: How special are they ... Histological type, on the other hand, refers to the growth pattern of the tumours. The histological diversity of adenocarcinomas in the breast has long fascinated pathologists, who have identified specific morphological and cytological patterns that were consistently associated with distinctive clinical presentations and/or outcomes. Cytogenetics - Wikipedia Cytogenetics is a branch of genetics that is concerned with how the chromosomes relate to cell behaviour, particularly to their behaviour during mitosis and meiosis. Techniques used include karyotyping, analysis of G-banded chromosomes, other cytogenetic banding techniques, as well as molecular cytogenetics such as fluorescent in situ hybridization (FISH) and comparative genomic hybridization ... DNA molecular markers in plant breeding: current status ... ABSTRACTWith the development of molecular marker technology in the 1980s, the fate of plant breeding has changed. Different types of molecular markers have been developed and advancement in sequencing technologies has geared crop improvement. To explore the knowledge about molecular markers, several reviews have been published in the last three decades; however, all these reviews were meant ... Cell Painting, a high-content image-based assay for ... In morphological profiling, quantitative data are extracted from microscopy images of cells to identify biologically relevant similarities and differences among samples based on these profiles ...
